If you’ve ever thought about working or living in another country, GoinGlobal is your one stop shop for information! With a rapidly globalized economy, more and more students and alums are pursuing opportunities abroad, and interest in international prospective employees has skyrocketed. GoinGlobal is a website intended to help you research domestic (US) and international locations, find and apply to job/internship/volunteer opportunities, and ultimately set you apart from your competition because of the geographically-specific information that is available. Whether you’re looking to volunteer in Guatemala, apply to a finance position in Thailand, pursuing the renewable energy industry in Denmark or planning to study abroad next semester, GoinGlobal is an invaluable tool to help you in your pursuits.

Interested in an international job, internship or volunteer opportunity?
Searching for jobs/internships and applying to volunteer opportunities can be a challenge, but investigating international opportunities can add to that challenge. GoinGlobal makes this process easier! Many aspects of your search will vary geographically, and GoinGlobal provides country specific information on resume expectations, education requirements, and work permits or visa regulations. Through these 34 country guides, 42 U.S. city guides, and 6 Canadian city guides, you can also find industry and employment trends, a list of top companies, job listings, volunteer organizations, cultural advice, and more. Below are some examples of what you can find:

- In Peru, the most effective avenue for obtaining employment is through classified ads in newspapers.
- In Brazil it is acceptable to submit two resumes, one that provides a brief overview and another that goes into depth about your work experiences.
- If you are planning to move to San Antonio after graduation and are interested in volunteering in the arts industry, you can find a link to 10 different organization websites with these opportunities.

Planning to study abroad?
GoinGlobal is also a great resource for students studying abroad. Conduct research to learn more about the local culture and visa requirements as you prepare for the study abroad application process and/or before you leave. You may even consider connecting with some organizations while abroad to work or volunteer part-time, engage in networking or informational interviews, and enhance your overall experience.

Are you an International Student and want to investigate possible options for working in the US or back in your home country?
If you are an International Student and planning to return home after graduation, GoinGlobal can help you search for opportunities in your home country before you graduate! Learn about upcoming fairs, networking events, and job listings that you can start preparing for right away.

If you are investigating options for doing an OPT in the US, the city guides may be helpful to identify helpful resources.

GoinGlobal is a resource available to you online through the CSBSJU Career Services’ website (http://www.csbsju.edu/Career/Students.htm - look for it in the right side panel). Check it out and take advantage of all the global opportunities that are available!
