RACE AND EDUCATION: A CONVERSATION ABOUT SURVIVAL AND HOPE

Dr. Reed, a retired criminal justice professor, shares his deeply personal stories about growing up in segregation.

"I love this book! The story of Junebug is simultaneously delightful, heartbreaking and instructive. While Junebug's vulnerability is precious and relatable, his life's trajectory exposes structural racism unimaginable to the average white child. This is not a story of overcoming that racism as much as it is one of excelling within the reality of it. A compelling and moving read."
