

The Bahamas and the Benedictines

You may have heard that the College of St. Benedict and St. John's University have a longstanding relationship with The Bahamas, and that more than 1,600 Bahamians have attended CSB+SJU over the last century. But what is the rest of the story? Join the Tegeder-Berg Society to learn more about the history of The Bahamas and its unique connections to CSB+SJU.

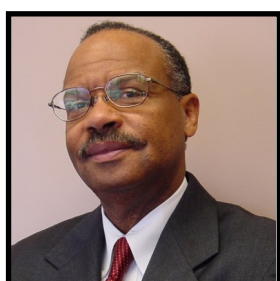

Thursday, October 19
Stephen B. Humphrey Theater, SJU

Social—6:30pm
Presentation—7:30pm

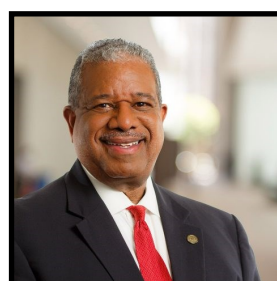

Dr. Brittany Merritt Nash, History Department, will discuss her research into the history of British imperialism and Benedictine missions in The Bahamas, highlighting the experiences of Bahamians who attended missionary schools, participated in nation-building, and worked to carve out a different future for The Bahamas. Then, CSB and SJU Bahamian alums Prince Wallace, Philip Galanis, and Trevare Sherman will join a roundtable discussion to share their stories and perspectives about this important history.

Dr. Brittany Merritt Nash
CSB+SJU History Department

Prince Wallace
Retired Entrepreneur

Philip Galanis
HLB Bahamas/SJU Trustee

Dr. Trevare Sherman
Fusion Superplex, Nassau, Bahamas